University of Texas at Austin The University of Texas is home to the Longhorns of Texas. It is located in Austin, Texas, and is part of the Big 12 Conference. This team is currently coached by Charlie Strong. The Texas Longhorns, who held their first season in 1893, is known for having a record 108 winning seasons over 122 seasons in total. He is also known for producing two Heisman winners: Earl Campbell and Ricky Williams. The school currently has an all-time record of 888-352-33. The school uniforms are emblematic and use the school colors of burnt orange and white. The school symbol, the Longhorn, is printed on the right side of each helmet. It's appropriate, like the mascot direct from the school, Bevo, is actually a Texas Longhorn steer. The school's home games are played at Darrell K. Royal-Texas Memorial Stadium, also known as Memorial Stadium. It can accommodate more than 100,000 fans during match days and is one of the most hostile and noisy atmospheres for visiting teams. La Lla can run high during rival games, especially when the school faces a rival like the Texas Aggies. University of Nebraska-Lincoln The University of Nebraska is home to the Nebraska Cornhuskers. This team is part of the Big Ten Conference and is located in Lincoln, Nebraska, at the school's flagship institution. Mike Riley is the current head coach of this team. The Nebraska Cornhuskers are just one of 10 teams to win more than 800 games with an 884-368-40 record. The team also boasts five national championships and 46 conference championships. The team has also produced dozens of NFL players and Heisman winners such as Johnny Rodgers, Eric Crouch, and Bobby Reynolds. The team wears uniforms equipped by Adidas in the colors of the school of scarlet and cream. The school logo is engraved on the left side of all helmets. The school's two costumed mascots, Li'Red and Herbie Husker, also wear the school logos on their outfits. The Nebraska Cornhuskers play their home games at Memorial Stadium, which is located on the school's main campus. This team is so loved by the school that it holds the record for the most consecutive sold-out games, which currently stands at more than 350. Students are often red on game days as part of a bullying tactic against rivals like the Wisconsin Badgers, Miami Hurricanes and Minnesota Golden Gophers. Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical University The LSU Tigers, also known as Fighting Tigers, are the sports team of Louisiana State University. This team is located in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and participates in the SEC Conference. Ed Orgeron is the interim coach for the foreseeable future. This team is known for having one of the best records of all time, which is currently at 771-405-47. The LSU Tigers have also won three national championships and have more than 40 former players currently active in the NFL, including Patrick Peterson and Odell Beckham, Jr. Team uniforms use school colors of purple and gold on all spare and pillar uniforms. The school logo is printed on the right side of each helmet, and the color pattern and logo can also be seen on the school's costumed mascot, Mike the Tiger. There is also a live Bengal tiger that is known as Mike the Tiger. The LSU Tigers play their home games at Tiger Stadium, which is housed on the school's main campus. It is known as Death Valley for fans because it has an impressive presence for visiting teams. The stadium can reasonably accommodate more than 102,000 fans, as is the case when the team is faced with a rival like the Auburn, the Arkansas Razorbacks, or the Miss Ole Rebels. Florida State University The Florida State Seminoles are the football team of Florida State University. It is located in Tallahassee, Florida, and is part of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Jimbo Fisher is the team's head coach. The Florida State Seminoles has a history, including the production of more than 200,200 and 250 NFL players. Three Heisman winners also performed for the school, including Charlie Ward, Chris Winke, and Jameis Winston. The team has also won more than 500 games, including various bowling victories and is known to be one of the toughest football teams in the NCAA. The Florida State Seminoles has one of the most iconic uniforms in the league. The jerseys represent and pay homage to seminoles culture by using the Amerindian symbols of the arrow, a man on a horse, and fire on the jersey and printed on the helmets. The uniforms use all the school colors, gamet and gold, to further complete the look, and these are the same colors used by Osceola and Renegade, the school's official mascots. The team plays all its home games at Doak Campbell Stadium, which is known as Doak for Students. This stadium can accommodate just under 80,000 fans and is one of the largest brick structures in the world, after the Great Wall of China. This stadium, located on the main campus of the school, is one of the most intimidating stadiums to visit schools, which is no doubt powered by the loyal fan base of the team has. The atmosphere in the stadium can warm up if the school plays one of its main rivals, including the Clemson Tigers, Miami Hurricanes, or Florida Gators. University of Florida The University of Florida is home to one of the best-known college football teams in America. The Florida Gators is part of the SEC and is located in Gainesville, Florida. The team is coached by Jim McElwain. This team, which was formed in 1906, has a three national championships and eight conference championships and holds an all-time record of 701-404-40. He is best known for being the producer of three Heisman winners, including Steve Spurrier, Danny Wuerffel, and Tim Tebow, one of the most popular football players in modern history. The team currently has three uniforms that it changes, depending on home and away games. These are adorned with the colors of the school, blue and orange, and have the school logo printed on the right side of each helmet and on the left side of each thing. These colors are also worn by the team's costumed mascots, Albert and Alberta Gator, who are symbolic of the school's animal, the alligator. Home games are traditionally played at Ben Hill Griffin Stadium, which is known among students as The Swamp. It is the twelfth largest football stadium by the number of seats, which currently stands just below 90,000. However, as football is a beloved sport at school and the atmosphere is electric, attendance for these games is generally considered the top 93,000 fans. This number is often for matches played against such as the LSU Tigers or the Georgia Bulldogs. Pennsylvania State University Location University Park, PA Penn State University is where nittany Lions can be found. This team is housed on the school's main campus in State College, Pennsylvania, and is part of the Big Ten Conference. He's coached by James Franklin. Franklin, Nittany Lions is one of the oldest college football teams in America, having been around since 1887. He has won two national championships and three conference championships. He also produced a Heisman winner in John Cappelletti and 40 All-Americans. The team wears the school's blue and white colours on all its uniforms. The school logo is engraved on the front of each jersey. These are the same colors that the Lion Nittany, the school's costumed mascot, wears on her scarf during games. The Nittany Lions call Beaver Stadium home. It is located in University Park, Pennsylvania. The stadium currently has more than 105,000 seats, making it the third largest stadium in the world. Beaver Stadium is an intimidating place for opposing teams, due to the fact that the Nittany Lions has a dedicated fan base that comes out to see every home game. The stadium's student sections have also been ranked nationally for enthusiasm, especially since the Nittany Lions play rivals, the Pittsburgh Panthers or the Ohio State Buckeyes. University of Tennessee The University of Tennessee is home to the Tennessee Volunteers, the school's first season football team in 1891. It is affectionately known as UT or Flights by fans. This team is located in Knoxville, Tennessee and is part of the SEC conference. The team is currently coached by Butch Jones. The Flights are known to have one of the best records of wins and losses in the NCAA, with the all-time record sitting at 824-367-54. The school is also known for being in the top ten teams by the number of wins in a bowling match. The school has won 13 conference championships, six national championships and 28 bowling games. Among the team's most famous football players are Peyton Manning, Johnny Majors and Frank Emanuel. The school team is equipped by Nike and features the orange and white UT colors, with alternative outfits for home and outdoor games. These are the same colors worn by the Flights, Smokey and Smokey X mascots. These include a costumed mascot and a bluetick Coonhound mascot, who is supported by the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. The Tennessee Flights receive a warm welcome every time they play a home game at Neyland Stadium. Although this is home to the football team, the stadium has also been known to host NFL show games as well. It can accommodate up to 105,000 fans per game and is considered one of the noisiest stadiums in the country. The crowd gets particularly loud if the school plays one of its rivals, which include the Alabama Crimson Tide and the Vanderbilt Commodores. University of Georgia The Georgia Bulldogs are making their home at the University of Georgia The team is located on the Athens, Georgia campus and is part of the SEC conference. Kirby Smart is in his second year as head coach. This university is well known for having an overall record of 788-413-54 and a record of 28-19-3. The school claims two national championships as well as 14 14 Championships. He also placed in the top five by the number of bowling appearances. The school produced two Heisman winners, Frank Sinkwich and Herschel Walker, and more than 65 All-Americans. Team uniforms use school colors, red and black, on home and outdoor uniforms. The school logo is also printed on the right side of the helmets. This uniform is worn by the school's costumed mascot, Hairy Dawg, and is semi-replicated on the school's living mascot, an English bulldog named Uga. All school home games are played at Sanford Stadium, which is located on campus in Athens. It is the tenth largest stadium in the NCAA and can accommodate nearly 95,000 fans. Games usually fill the stadium with a light atmosphere, and these are popular events among the student body. This atmosphere changed, however, and became tense if the school played one of its three main rivals: the Florida Gators, the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets, and the Auburn Tigers. Auburn University Auburn University is home to the Auburn Tigers, the school's football team. This team is located in Auburn, Alabama, and is a member of the Southeastern Conference. The head coach is Gus Malzahn. The Auburn Tigers have had a tumultuous history, but he currently ranks in the top 10 most successful teams over the past 25 years as well as the last 50 years in terms of win percentages. The team, which has been competitive since 1892, has also produced three Heisman winners, including Pat Sullivan, Bo Jackson and Cam Newton. In fact, the Heisman Trophy is named after John Heisman, who coached the Auburn team himself for four years. The team uniforms are in the school colours, navy blue and burnt orange, and are made by Under Armour. Both sets of uniforms feature orange and blue stripes on the helmet, as well as the school logo featured prominently on the left side of the helmet. The school's mascot, Aubie the Tiger, often wears the school's colours when she makes appearances. The Auburn Tigers play their home games at Jordan-Hare Stadium, located just on the school campus. It can accommodate more than 85,000 fans and is constantly designated as having one of the best match day atmospheres. This, however, has also been named one of the most intimidating places to play, especially by the school's rivals. These rival teams include the Alabama Crimson Tide, the Georgia Bulldogs, the LSU Tigers and the Florida Gators. University of Miami The Miami Hurricanes is the name given to the University of Miami football team. It is located in Miami Gardens, Florida, and participates in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The head coach is Mark Richt. The team is best known for its ability to produce of the STELLAr NFL. Two former players won the Heisman and nine were inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. The school also holds the record for the largest number of alumni who are currently active in the NFL, with that number being 42. The Miami Hurricanes are equipped by Adidas and wear the green and orange colors for all games, with alternative outfits for home and away games. The school mascot is costumed mascot Sebastian the Ibis, who is a marsh bird. Sebastian the Ibis still wears a Hurricanes jersey with the number zero in a good place on the front. The team shares its original stadium, Hard Rock Stadium, with the NFL's Miami Dolphins. This facility can accommodate up to 65,000 fans, which is a good thing, as the team has an avid fan base among the collegiate community. Home games are especially important when the team plays against rivals Florida Gators, Florida State Seminoles, Our Lady Fighting Irish, or Nebraska Cornhuskers. Texas A - M University- College Station Location College Station, TX Texas A-M University is home to the Texas Aggies, or Aggies that fans are trying to call them. This team is part of the SEC conference and is located in College Station, Texas. The Aggies are currently coached by Kevin Sumlin. The Aggies hold 18 conference titles and three national titles. He is also known as the college football team of John David Crow and Johnny Manziel, both of whom are Heisman winners. The team also produced 22 All-Americans. The Aggies have historically worn brown and white uniforms with the school logo printed on the right side of the helmets. The outline of the state of Texas can also be seen on the left side of the pants with the logo nestled inside. Reveille, the school's living mascot, wears the school's colours. She is a Collie Rough and has always been a woman. Reveille is the most senior member of the Cadet Corps, found at the school. Home games are traditionally huge events in Texas A-M, and are often the most anticipated events of the year. All home games are played at Kyle Field, which is one of the largest college stadiums in the country. It can accommodate 102,000 people, although it has been known to accommodate up to 110,000 people by playing rivals such as the Texas Longhorns, the Arkansas Razorbacks, or the LSU Tigers. University of Wisconsin-Madison The Wisconsin Badgers are the University of Wisconsin football team. The team is located in Madison, Wisconsin and is part of the Big Ten Conference. The team is coached by Paul Chryst. This team has been competitive since 1889, although it was created in 1896. He has an all-time record of 678-486-53 and has produced two Heisman winners, Alan Ameche and Ron Dayne. The team also had a total of ten former players inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. The Wisconsin Badgers wear uniforms made by Under Armour. The team wears the colours of red and white cardinal, with a central stripe and school logo on the helmet. The school's mascot, Bucky Badger, also wears the school's colours, but opts for a striped sweater with the school logo before and in the center. Wisconsin Badgers' home games played at Camp Stadium, which is the oldest stadium in the Big Ten Conference. It is also one of the 50 largest stadiums in the world and can accommodate more than 80,000 fans. This stadium is known for having an electric and sometimes overly enthusiastic atmosphere, which was punctuated by the famous Camp Randall Crush in 1993. However, fans have softened a little in recent years; the exception to this rule is when the school plays one of its rivals, which include the Iowa Hawkeyes, the Minnesota Golden Gophers, and the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Clemson De Clemson University is home to the Clemson Tigers, also known simply as the Tigers. The team is located in Clemson, South Carolina, and is part of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Tigers are coached by Dabo Swinney, who is celebrating his 10th year as head coach. This school is best known for having accumulated more than 700 victories since its creation in 1896. The Tigers have won 21 conference championships and four division titles since 2005 and have produced more than 200 players who have entered the NFL. It was the collegiate team of Jeff Davis, Banks McFadden and Terry Kinard. The Clemson Tigers wear orange, white and insignia uniforms, the colors of the school. The helmets are adorned with a white and royal stripe and a white paw, symbolizing the school's mascot, the Tiger. The Tiger, which is a beloved tradition in the history of the school, is a costumed mascot who travels with the team for moral support. The school stadium is located on the campus of Clemson, South Carolina. It currently has more than 81,000 seats. He is best known as Death Valley, a nickname given to the stadium because the Tigers have a 227-88-7 record there. It's a noisy stadium that's known to get boisterous, especially when the team plays against one of its rivals, such as the South Carolina Gamecocks, the Florida State Seminoles, or the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets. University of Oregon The Oregon Ducks are the University of Oregon football team. The team, which is located in Eugene, Oregon, belongs to the Pac-12 Conference and its head coach is Mark Helfrich. The school holds four division titles, 12 conference titles, and has produced one Heisman winner and eight All-Americans. The team is best known for its dynamic and changing uniforms, resulting in new designs on an almost annual basis. As the colors change from year to year, the school tries to incorporate wings and feathers and green and gold colors into each uniform whenever possible. It is also useful that the team mascot, known as The Oregon Duck, or Puddles, wears a similar green and gold outfit when making appearances at sporting events. The school even has a special license agreement with Disney use the likeness of Donald Duck for his mascot. Autzen Stadium is home to the Oregon Ducks. It can accommodate up to 60,000 people for games. It's a noisy environment that can also be quite intimidating for casual football as the team has enthusiastic support at home. The stadium can sometimes be hostile to visiting teams, especially the school's two biggest rivals, the Oregon State Beavers and the Washington Huskies. University of Washington-Seattle The University of Washington is home to the Washington Huskies. This team is located in Seattle, Washington, and is a member of the Pac-12 Conference. The school is best known for having one of the longest winning streaks in the nation, including a 27-game winning streak between the late 1970s and early 2000s. He is also known for being one of the best quarterbacks producers for the NFL, listing 17 of the team's last 20 quarterbacks who went to the NFL. This team is coached by Chris Petersen. The Washington Huskies wear Nike-designed uniforms that use school colors, purple and gold, as well as white. There are also variations on uniforms for home and away games. The mascot of this school is Dubs, Harry the Husky, a costumed mascot who accompanies the team to all games. The team plays all of its home games at Alaska Airlines Field at Husky Stadium, which is located on campus. The stadium is located just off Lake Washington and is one of the largest university stadiums in the Pacific Northwest, seating just over 70,000 people. It is also known as one of the loudest and loudest stadiums in the country, especially when the team is squaring against one of its rivals, including the Washington State Cougars and the Oregon Ducks. University of California-Los Angeles The University of California at Los Angeles is home to the UCLA Bruins. The team is best known for always being ranked in the top ten of every AP football team poll at least once a decade. The team, located in Pasadena, California, plays in the Pac-12 division and is coached by Jim Mora. The UCLA Bruins have a long and rich history of wins, thanks in part to the coaching efforts of Terry Donahue, who led the school to a 151-74-8 record in the 1980s and 1990s. The school is also known for producing nearly 30 first-round picks in the NFL draft as well as being the collegiate team of Heisman winner Gary Beban. The UCLA Bruins wear uniforms made of real blue, a color made especially for school, and gold. The team's mascot, Joe Bruin, also wears a similar outfit when making an appearance at any ucla event. The team is housed at Rose Bowl Stadium, which can reasonably accommodate nearly 95,000 people. Home games are an important event, with games usually filled to capacity. This is especially true if the Bruins play their rivals, USC. Michigan State University Location East Lansing, MI Michigan State University's football team, the Spartans, represent the school in the Big Ten Conference. The school is known for winning six national championships and nine conference championships, the last in 2015. This team, which is located in East Lansing, Michigan, has been coached by Mark Dantonio for the past ten years. Spartans MSU began as an intramural sports club in 1885 and did not receive university status until 1896. It reached its peak in the 1950s when schools were considered the nation's football factory, turning some of the best players in the game. Spartans wear green, white and gold uniforms. There are different variations of the uniform, depending on whether the team plays a home or away game. The team is accompanied to every game by Sparty, the school's mascot. This is a great muscular male Spartan warrior dressed in Greek costumes that use school colors. Spartan Stadium is where the Michigan Spartans play every home game, and it is located right on the school campus. It is the sixth largest stadium in the Big Ten and comfortably seats 75,000 people. This is great news for the Spartans, as the school has a large fan base at home. In fact, the school is considered to be one of the top 25 teams based on participation in the game. The most popular games are those played by school rivals, which include Notre Dame, Indiana, the University of Michigan Wolverines, and Penn State. In 2015, MSU holds all the trophies won in these annual games. University of Arkansas Location Fayetteville, AR The University of Arkansas is home to the Arkansas Razorbacks, a team that is ranked among the top 25 teams in number of wins in college football history. The team, which is located on the school's flagship campus in Fayetteville, Arkansas, is coached by Bret Bielema, who has held the position since 2013. The school plays in the Southeastern Conference. The Arkansas Razorbacks hold a record 13 conference championships and was the team of 45 All-Americans. This is an amazing record for a team that has been in business since 1894. The most famous coach for the Razorbacks was Frank Broyles, who served as head coach from 1958 to 1976, the period during which the Razorbacks found glory at the conference and national stages. The Razorbacks, who are also known as Pigs, wear jerseys that are red and white cardinals that were designed by Nike. The school mascot is called Tusk, a live Russian wild boar, which is a staple food during the team's home games. The current live mascot, named Tusk IV, has its own indoor and outdoor home located in Dardanelle, Arkansas. Razorbacks use two different stages. The main stadium is the Donald W. Reynolds Razorback Stadium which is located near the school's main campus, which can accommodate up to 80,000 people per game. The second stadium is the War Memorial Stadium, which is the second home for and is generally used during conference matches. Razorback games are filled with excitement and anticipation, making it a great atmosphere during the games. Unconditional fans always make the trip to see the Razorbacks play their well-known rivals, such as the Miss Ole Rebels, the LSU Tigers, the Texas Aggies, the Missouri Tigers, and and and The Longhorns of Texas. The latter, along with the Ole Miss Rebels, are considered the school's fiercest rivals, although the last game against the Texas Longhorns was in 2014. University of Pittsburgh University of Pittsburgh and football are inseparable. The school, which is located in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has a football team since 1890, and it is known for its involvement in changes to the sport, including the desegregation of the Sugar Bowl. The team, known as the Pittsburgh Panthers, is coached by Pat Narduzzi. The school plays in the NCAA Atlantic Coast Conference. The Pitt Panthers have won nine national championships in their 116-year history, most recently in 1976. The school has always been known as one of the top 20 college football teams in the country, but its reputation is much more historic. In 1955, the University of Pittsburgh became the first team to disintegrate college football when head coach John Michelosen played fullback Bobby Crier, an African-American player, in the Sugar Bowl. The Panthers' uniforms are adorned with blue and gold, the colors of the school. The mascot is the Pittsburgh Panther, also known as Rock, which can be seen in 20 different locations around the school campus and football facilities. All of the school's home games are played at Heinz Field, the same facility used by the city's football team, the Pittsburgh Steelers. The school's fan base is vast and enthusiastic, no doubt due to the fact that the school enjoys health competition from rivals such as Penn State, Syracuse University, and the University of Notre Dame. Lady, it's me.
